2:00 The Sunday Feature

John Amis Composer Portraits
We pay tribute to the British broadcasting personality who died last year, aged 91, with this series made in 1981 and recently re-mastered. Known to many through the My Music panel game, John Amis visited this country several times and recorded programmes for Radio New Zealand on two occasions. His experience working with and interviewing hundreds of musicians and composers made him a witty contributor, admired for his phenomenal musical knowledge and his ability to drop into the programme an appropriate and often hilarious personal anecdote whenever called upon. While the spoken content is contemporary to the 1980s, Amis's personal associations with each of the composers make his comments still very relevant thirty years later.

Five programmes

(5) Michael Tippett
Few British composers have responded as deeply to world events as Sir Michael Tippett. His oratorio, A Child of our Time, was an impassioned protest against the persecution and tyranny he saw happening throughout the world in 1939, at the onset of World War II. In this last programme, John Amis looks in particular at the music Tippett wrote from this time up to the early 80s (RNZ)

Philosophy Talk
Presented by Ken Taylor and John Perry of Stanford University
Six programmes
(6) Why be Moral?

Morality tells us how we ought to behave, if we want to do the right thing. But is there a reason why we ought to be moral in the first place? Both Plato and Kant believed that morality is dictated by reason and so a fully rational person is automatically a moral person too. But how can we derive morality from reason? Isn't it possible to be a rational but amoral or even immoral person? John and Ken walk the line with James Sterba from the University of Notre Dame, author of

From Rationality to Equality (Ben Manilla Productions)

impact on 20th-century American popular music and culture, with exclusive music, interviews and other content from his personal

The project began to take shape in 1995 when Dylan's manager, Jeff Rosen, started scheduling interviews with Dylan's friends and associates.
Among those interviewed are poet
Allen Ginsberg and folk musician Dave Van Ronk, both of whom died not long after this programme was
